Bulk & Canned Tomato Paste

Tomix Food tomato paste is produced from high-quality tomatoes harvested at full maturity and processed under tightly controlled conditions to ensure superior color, flavor, and consistency. Using advanced evaporation and concentration technology, our production process preserves the natural tomato solids while achieving stable, uniform Brix levels suitable for professional food manufacturing applications.

From washing and sorting to crushing, refining, and aseptic packaging, each stage of production is monitored to comply with international food safety requirements. The resulting paste offers a rich red color, smooth texture, balanced acidity, and strong tomato aroma that performs consistently in sauces, soups, ready meals, canned foods, and seasonings.

Our tomato paste is available in a wide range of packaging formats including aseptic bags, industrial drums, tin cans, and customized private-label options. With our focus on steady supply capability, volume flexibility, and quality stability, Tomix Food is positioned as a reliable partner for distributors, wholesalers, and large food processors worldwide.

IQF Frozen Fruits & Vegetables

Tomix Food's IQF frozen fruits and vegetables are processed using state-of-the-art Individual Quick Freezing technology designed to lock in freshness immediately after harvesting. Raw materials are selected from certified farms, thoroughly inspected, cleaned, trimmed, sorted, and rapidly frozen at ultra-low temperatures within minutes of preparation. The IQF process freezes each piece individually rather than in blocks, preventing product adhesion and maintaining natural structure, texture, and appearance. This allows users to portion only what is needed while keeping the remainder in excellent condition, significantly reducing food waste and improving operational efficiency.

Unlike conventional freezing methods, IQF preserves a higher percentage of vitamins, minerals, and original flavor while extending shelf life without preservatives. Our IQF products are widely used in foodservice operations, bakery manufacturing, beverage production, ready-meal factories, and retail distribution.

All processing steps are carried out under strict hygienic systems and international quality certifications to ensure food safety, traceability, and product reliability. Tomix Food offers flexible packaging options including bulk sacks and customized retail packs to meet the diverse needs of our international partners.

Fruit Purees

TomixFood fruit puree is carefully crafted from selected fruits sourced at peak ripeness to guarantee optimal flavor intensity, natural sweetness, and vibrant aroma. Immediately after harvesting, the fruits are gently washed, peeled, pulped, and refined using low-impact processing methods designed to maintain maximum retention of nutrients, fiber content, and natural color.

Heat treatment is precisely controlled to ensure product safety while protecting the delicate fresh-fruit characteristics that define premium puree quality. The result is a uniformly smooth texture without the need for artificial thickeners or color additives, offering a clean-label ingredient that meets modern market demands.

Our fruit purees serve a wide spectrum of applications including juices, smoothies, bakery fillings, dairy desserts, baby food, jams, sauces, and ice creams. We provide standardized formulations as well as customized blends tailored to specific viscosity, sweetness, or fruit concentration requirements. Packaging options include aseptic bags, food-grade drums, and retail containers, all designed for optimal shelf stability and ease of transportation. Through consistent quality management and strong sourcing networks, TomixFood guarantees dependable year-round delivery.
